XSTREMEMD RECEIVES MEDICAL SERVICE CONTRACT WITH SBM OFFSHORE

6 August 2015

LAFAYETTE, La. – XstremeMD was awarded the medical service provider contract by SBM Offshore to support the Stones development project in the Gulf of Mexico. The Stones development is located in 2,896m (9500ft) of water approximately 320km (200 miles) offshore Louisiana in the Walker Ridge area. When installed, the Stones Floating Production Storage and Offloading (FPSO) will be the deepest FPSO development in the world.

XstremeMD will provide Remote Health Care Practitioners, Equipment, Supplies, Telemedicine and Topside Support.

XstremeMD President Dr. Joseph Pearson commented: “During these economic times, we are thankful for all opportunities that come our way. We are especially thankful for the opportunity to care for the crew on board the Stones Project being that it is such a high profile project. Given its extreme location in Walker Ridge and the number of personnel on board, I am confident we will make a significant contribution to their overall wellbeing and I am looking forward to getting to know everyone on board.”

About XstremeMD

XstremeMD has rapidly become North America’s premier remote health care provider for the oil and gas industry. Their innovative approach has led to customer affordability and the development of new standards in remote health care. XstremeMD has never lost a customer and their annual sales volume has doubled every year since 2009. They employ more than 100 employees across North America’s oil and gas fields and have an expanding global presence as well. Recently, they opened their sixth remote mobile medical unit within North America’s shale plays and have contributed to several remote health care publications. Most importantly, XstremeMD’s services have saved numerous lives which would have otherwise been lost had it not been for their services.
